A Battle With a Banker.

Spring Lake, N. J., June 23.—Detective Max Freeman, of Philadelphia, is now in bed suffering severely from the effects of the injuries he received while endeavoring to capture a man said to be Gideon Marsh, president of the Keystone bank. Freeman had received intimations that Marsh had been seen in the vicinity and was hiding at Como, a resort just north of this place. With two others Freeman drove to the isolated place and found a long unused cabin with a room that had been fitted up recently. On leaving the place he was attacked by two men, one of whom he asserts was the abscending banker, and was seriously wounded.

The fact that the house which the mysterious men were about to enter was until believe that Marsh was in hiding there and that he intended to remain there until his friends could take him to a safer place. Spring Lake is the most popular resort of Philadelphians on the northern New Jersey coast.

WAITING FOR DEATH. Ex-Senator McDonald Bids His Friends

Farewell Forever. Indianapotis, June 22.-Ex-Senator Me-

Donald died last night. He passed away very peacefully without a struggle, surrounded by his family, who were all in atendance at the bedside.

Early in the morning the unfavorable symptoms of several days ago reappeared. During the forenoon the sufferer had an attack of vomiting, and Dr. Runnels took the vessel to the window to examine the contents. The physician shook his head dubiously. Mr. McDonald had followed every movement, and when the physician returned to his bedside he inquired: "Is that your verdict, doctori" patient's serbaity at all. In the presence of all, he said, he wished to give testimony to his faith in God's saving grace. Then he grasped each by the hand and bade them good-by, saying that he could see no callers. His friends thus dismissed, the dying man surrendered himself to the care of his physicians to await the coming of the inevitable.

Death in a Storm.

Sr. Louis, June 18.-During a severe storm which came up between 1 and 2 o'clock this afternoon some twenty-five plenickers were huddled together in an outuse,in Forest Park near the police station for protection from the rain which came down in torrents. They had scarcely got inside the building when there was a sharp flash of lightning, and then shricks and moans and cries for help issued from the building in which the people had congregated to escape the storm's fury. A wild scene of confusion followed, and pelicemen hurried to the scene. Nearly all of the occupants of the out house were more or less injured, one being killed and three very seriously injured. All the injured were taken home and medical assistance summoned. None of them are fataily injured.

A Terrible Cloudburst.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 21 .- A cloudburst at Leechburg, Armstrong county, thirty miles from this city on the West Pennsylvania railroad last night, destroyed much property and fatally injured one man.

A collection of houses on either side, occupied by about 200 people, is known as Georgetown. Suddenly the rain poured down in terrents. The streets of Leech-burg flowed like rivers, while down Anderson's run the water poured in huge waves, carrying everything before it Fifteen dwellings and many out-buildings, stables, fences, etc., were carried away and jammed against the railroad bridge at the run, which was unable to stand the terrific pressure also gave way. The oc-cupants of the houses fied to the hills.

COLUMBUS, O., June 21.—The closing day of the Ohio Republican convention was unrufiled by any of those scenes of dissention and discord that have been so industribusly predicted by many for some days past. For the first time, probably, in the history of the state of Ohio, every nomination on the state ticket was made on the first ballot. For every office except kovernor there were from three to half a dozen candidates, but there seemed to be a tacit understanding that under no cir-cumstances should any illfeeling be en-gendered to imperil the success of the ticket and early in the day the practices was established of taking a single ballot, and then, ere the ballot was announced, changing to the leading candidate and making his nomination unanimous. this way there was not a second ballot for the same office throughout the whole day's proceedings.

striking one, was to-day's proceedings dif-ferent from those which have characterized Ohio Republican state conventions for the past twenty years—the failure to espe-cially indorse the public career and service of Hon. John Sherman and recom-mend his re-election to the United States recently owned by Yard leads many to senate. It would be an injustice, however, to the venerable Ohio senator to suppose this omission was due to the lack of Sherman mea in the convention. It was, rather, due to the personal request of the senator that his friends made no effort to secure the adoption of the accustomed res-

William McKinley was nominated for governor with shouts. In his acceptance speech he said: "The Republican party of Ohio approves the administration of President Harrison and extends to it hearty congratulation. It has been clean, conservative, able and patriotic. It has been wise in its domestic policy and the government is amply able to meet all the government is amply able to meet all its obligations. has won the confidence of the people; It commands universal respect abroad.

"The party is in favor of a regulated immigration, of liberal pensions to our soldiers and sailors, of a sound currency. It is in favor of gold and silver, and also paper money based upon coin, all equal and at all times interchangeable-equal in fact and equal in law.

Andrew M. Harris was nominated for "Yes," said the physician, sadly.

The announcement did not disturb the Poe; treasurer, W. T. Cope; attorney general, J. K. Richards; supreme judge, M. J. Williams; board of public works, C. E. Grace; school commissioner, O. T. Carson; dairy commissioner, G. W. McNeil.

A BATTLE ROYAL

Four Men Fight to the Death in a Jamaica Port.

NEW YORK, June 20.-The steamship South Portland, of the Wessels Line, arrived from Jamaica ports yesterday, Chief Mate Lowell told the following tale:

"On the afternoon of June 12 the Port-land touched at Port Marie. Mate Lowell was sent on shore to got the mails. On his way to the postofice he came across a crowd of blacks on the village green. There must have been at least 500 of them. and when Mr. Lowell inquired what the row was about they informed him that a battle royal was just about to begin.

Capulet controversy, and each of them jail of Leavenworth county, and that begether too good a place to harbor the other three any longer. So they had mutually decided to fight to the death. In the cen ter of the green an enclosure had been roped off and inside of it, at each corner, stood one of the four contestants. They were stripped to the waist, and each man grasped in his hand a knife with a blade seven Inches long.

For a moment the men stood glaring at each other, then the word was given and the fight began. It was a case of every man for himself with a vengeance, Mate Lowell says that without exception, it was the most fearful sight he ever saw. In five minutes it was all over. When the police arrived on the scene three bodies backed almost beyond recognition lay inside the rope. The fourth man was so crazed by his wounds that before the police could lay hands on him he drove his own knife through his heart.

Judge Thayer of the United States Circuit Court at St. Louis, has recently handed down an opinion and granted a perpetual injunction against the defendants in the case of The Hosekiter Co., against the Bruggeman Reinert Distilling Co., almas "Gold Spring Distilling Co.," prodibiting the advertising, manufactoring or selling of any article of stomach bitters either in touls, by the gallon or otherwise, or in any way making use of the name "Hostetter," except in connection with the sale of the genuine bitters, which are always sold in bottles securely sealed and also prohibiting the sale of any bitters in bulk, though the name "Hostetter" be not used, but the suggestion made to the purchaser that he can put them in the empty Hostetter bottles and purchasers would not discover the difference. His decision supports the Hostetter company in the exclusive ue of the name "Hostetler" in connection with either the manufacture or sale of stomach bitters in any manner or form whatsoever, and firmly establishes its ownership in the same as a "Trade Name." A Girl Who is a Murderous, Incendiary and Horse-Thiel. Newstreen, N. Y., Jane 23,-There is: girl in jail at Newburgh who, if all the charges against her are true, is the incarnation of viciousness and depravity. She s under arrest for horse stealing, but will also be charged with arson and murder. Within three months she is said to have married an old farmer, burned down his house, mill and barn, roasted his weak minded son to death in one of her fires, and round up by running off with a Newburgh livery team and surrey and trading them for other horses and a wagon.

A Bad Outlook. New York, June 28 -R. G. WEED GOOD TO EAT. Pussly Is So Nice that Ben Le Forre

One of the most abundant and most toothsome plants is the homely weed called pussly, says a writer in the New York Herald. As a table vegetable it is not to be despised. The succulent stems, with their leaves, are boiled tender and dressed with butter, the same as spinach. The French market gardeners cultivate it regularly and have different varieties. The young plants are used as a salad and are very good when served with a bacon dressing and one or two hardboiled eggs, chopped find and sprinkled over the salad. Pussly flowers are sometimes called wax pinks. When the plant is full grown the thick, deshy stems are stripped of their leaves, tied into bunches and served as asparagus. The leaves are cooked as spinach and by many are considered superior to that vegetable. A story is told of Benjamin Le Ferre n connection with pussly. At his Ohio home the genial ex-congressman had a vegetable garden, which the more he cultivated the more luxuriantly grew possly. He finally gave up the attempt at gardening and permitted the pussly to monopolize the premises. He was one day bemoanng his ill luck at trying to raise vegctables from government seeds, and was roundly accusing the agricultural department of putting up packages of pussly seeds instead of beet seeds, when a friend informed him that as an article of food the pussly was more valuable than the beet. Whereupon the distinguished gardener telegraphed to his head man to weed out the beets and cultivate the pussly. The order was carried out, much to the surprise of the man of all work, who never before heard of any one sating pussly.

What Is a Cowboy!

Where the cowboy comes from is a nystery. He is often of Mexican origin, and more than half Indian. He is a democrat always; he lives under the flag of a republic, and knows it. He recognizes no social superior in any man; but, on the other hand to those he considers his inferiors, as the Indian or negro, no aristocrat or aristocrats could be haughtier. He is brave to fool-hardiness, and will take chapces of his life that it would seem none but a crazy man would. He takes mittee has sent 56,000 Russian Jews to no manner of care of his health. When a long way from the camp or ranch, he sleeps where night finds him on the many years. Corn is already made and open prairie, with only the stars for ight. He bathes when he has time, and eats and drinks anything he can get, and all he can get. He can be depended upon to do his work well, he it at camp or when driving in a big bunch of horses from the ranges to the ranch. He is strong as an ox, has an Two hundred and fifty-five coal miners unbounded love for gay trappings, and were discharged at the Kansas and Texas is generally gay and free from care. coal company's mine near Bevier, Mo., His chief characteristic is a profound contempt for the denizen of the cast, whom he calls a tenderfoot. The cowboy might not shine on Fifth avenue, says Harper's Weekly, but he is found just the proper person for the ranch, and he is withal a very pictures que, very useful, and very natural man. The wages paid him are small, and are usually expended as the first of portunity presents itself. He thinks not of the morrow. He is a creature of o-day. He is the same cowboy that Mark Twain knew, and he is no different when driving the beeves in Kansas or the bunch of horses on the prairies
